

Revision of Course #217 – Law of Insurance: General Liability

American Educational Institute (AEI) is pleased to announce we have completed a revision of Course #217 - Law of Insurance: General Liability. This course is an elective in the Liability program.

Revision includes:

- Current case law & analysis of the interpretation of occurrence in construction defect claims
 - Business risk exclusions
 - Absolute pollution exclusion
- Personal & advertising injury coverage as included in Part B of the commercial general liability policy
 - Many other topics of importance to claims professionals

The course revision incorporates key points from our Law of Environmental Claims (#221) and Personal and Advertising Injury Coverage (#224) courses, as they affect coverage under a general liability policy. Because of the new integration, courses #221 and #224 will no longer be offered as of May 6, 2019.

"AEI is always looking to better develop and streamline our claims law material in a way that is best presented to our students. We feel the revision of course #217 with the incorporation of the most important topics is the best way to communicate the material."

-Amy Koernig, AEI President

For more information, please contact AEI at 800-631-8183 or visit aeiclaimslaw.com